Ever-Lite™ Eco-friendly, Composite Travel Trailers Improved for 2012

Full ComposiTek™ Construction Ever-Lite Now Available in Deep Slide and Two Other Popular Floor Plans for 2012

Middlebury, Ind. — EverGreen Recreational Vehicles is building its original all composite Ever-Lite travel trailers in all seven of its popular Deep Slide models and two additional floor plans for 2012—the 27RB and the 29FK. EverGreen recently answered the demands of the marketplace with the advent of two new economy minded brands for 2012—the i-Go Lite and Ever-Lite Select brands.

Limiting production of the original Ever-Lite brand makes it the only EverGreen product built for discriminating buyers looking for an all composite, more durable, longer lasting, sustainable travel trailer. The Ever-Lite remains the flagship for EverGreen's commitment to quality and sustainability. A total of nine floor plans will be produced in the full composite Ever-Lite brand for 2012.

ComposiTek™ Construction--The Ever-Lite Difference

Ever-Lite's exclusive ComposiTek™ construction makes it 20 percent lighter than competing brands. The all-composite walls, floor and roof mean that in addition to being lighter than wood products, it is also far stronger, and resists rot, mold and mildew. The ComposiTek™ manufacturing process replaces 50 sheets of lauan plywood in each trailer and thus yields a camper with virtually no harmful VOC off-gassing air--especially noticeable to people with allergies or eye sensitivity to formaldehyde.

Since quality is a trademark of the EverGreen name, a four-point, gear-driven slide out is engineered to simultaneously open and close at all corners of the Deep Slide units. This provides a tighter seal when closed and ultra smooth operation—far superior to conventional two-point cable systems. The 100 point factory testing of every Ever-Lite™ includes simulated six inches of rainfall in just 12 minutes with the slides in both the open and closed positions.

Other improvements for all 2012 Ever-Lite™ models include:

- Redesigned upholstered furniture styling

- Sprayer faucets
- New planked wood Beauflor laminate flooring
- Campfire Kitchenette (three models)
